A HORSE IN A BARBER SHOP.
A large brown horse attached to one of Wells, Fargo & Co.'s express wagons was standing with the wagon backed up to the platform, in the station of the Erie Railroad at Jersey City Sunday afternoon when a ferryboat from Twenty-third street came in. The horse took fright at the boat as it was making the landing and ran toward the narrow passage behind the station, where the newsboys kept their boxes standing, ready to go out on the trains. There were a number of boys sitting on the boxes and they at once jumped up and began swinging their hats and making an effort to stop him. The horse made a sudden turn and dashed into the barber shop of the station, frightening the barbers and their customers nearly out of their wits. The horse stuck fast in the window, with his head and fore legs in the shop and the two hind legs outside. He at once began to flounder around, and smashed nearly every thing in the room, doing about $300 damage before getting so tangled up in the harness that he fell over on his side. One of the barbers, having more presence of mind than the rest, ran out and jumped on the horse's head when he fell, and kept him down until assistance came. A man who was in the chair nearest the horse, getting shaved, had a narrow escape from being injured by the floundering animal. The passengers who were waiting in the station for trains were greatly alarmed at the noise and confusion which followed the runaway. A gang of men from the railway yards hoisted the horse out of his predicament with a tall and tackle. N. Y. Sun.

STABBED TO DEATH.—Sam Thalheimer, a youth of nineteen or twenty, was stabbed to death in Richmond yesterday evening by J. E. Weimer, who charged that his victim had betrayed his daughter. The tragedy took place in Fifth street, within sight of the Middle District police station. Weimer met Thalheimer near the scene of the attack, drew a big pocket-knife, and drove it into the breast of the youth ten times. Four of the wounds are within a few inches of each other. Thalheimer was removed to a nearby drug store, where he died about ten or fifteen minutes after the assault. Weimer promptly called out for the police, and when an officer approached him surrendered. He declared to the policeman, and later to reporters when questioned in his cell at the station, that he killed Thalheimer because the latter had ruined his daughter, nineteen years old. Weimer, who is a blacksmith, says that his daughter confessed that Thalheimer is the author of her ruin. The girl is pretty, and her father says is paralyzed on one side. The father states that he and his wife were not aware until very recently the cause of their daughter's trouble. She had been treated by a physician for another difficulty. "I killed the man," exclaimed Weimer in his cell last night, "and if I had it to do over again I would repeat just what I have done. This man has ruined my home." Young Thalheimer is the son of Chas. Thalheimer, a well-known and highly respected Broad street Jewish merchant. The lad has borne a good reputation. Weimer went to Richmond about a year ago from Wytheville.

NEGRO COMMON SENSE.—Polk Miller furnishes the Times the following sample of the argument going the rounds against sound money:
The white man and the negro are both puzzled in this campaign. When the negro sees men who have heretofore taken great interest in furthering the interests of the democratic party, hurrying for sound money, and talking about voting for McKinley, he naturally begins to ask the question, "Where does the negro come in?"
Yesterday two darkies were discussing the question of gold and silver, when the following was overheard:
"What, de meamin' o' all dis 'ere talk 'bout gold an' silver? Bole un 'em is good 'nough for me, an' I'll be glad 'nough ter git my han's on any one un 'em."
"Well," said the other, "de diffrence betwixt what dey terminate sou'n' money an' silver is jes' dis: Gold is de sou'n' money. De rich folk is got all o' dat. Dey rattles it in deir pockets, but dean let none o' it out; we gits de sou'n', but dean git none o' de money."—Richmond Times.

ENTERPRISE OF THE ASTORS.—The Astors are about the only people in New York who can afford to open up a street of their own in the part of New York which is most valuable, and soon they will do so. The street is to be made by tearing down property belonging to the Astors west of the Hotel Waldorf at Fifth avenue and Thirty-third street, and will run from Thirty-third street to Thirty-fourth. The property to be destroyed is valued at $400,000, and belongs to the two Astors—William Waldorf and his cousin, John Jacob. At this point John Jacob Astor is now building an immense hotel to be called the Schermerhorn, and William Waldorf is building an annex to the Waldorf. The agreement to tear down property enough to open a street near the middle of the block means that the Astors are not going to be competitors in the hotel business, but will act together as two cousins should. These two hotels will be under the same management—that of George C. Boldt—and will probably be known as the Greater Waldorf.

Marvelous Results.
From a letter written by Rev. J. Gunderson, of Dimondale, Mich., we are permitted to make this extract: "I have no hesitation in recommending Dr. King's New Discovery, as the results were almost marvelous in the case of my wife. While I was pastor of the Baptist Church at River Junction she was brought down with Pneumonia succeeding La Grippe. Terrible paroxysms of coughing would last hours with little interruption and it seemed as if she could not survive them. A friend recommended Dr. King's New Discovery; it was quick in its work and highly satisfactory in results." Trial bottles free at E. L. Allen's Drug Store. Regular size 50c. and $1.00.

Mrs. Rhodie Noah, of this place, was taken in the night with cramping pains and the next day diarrhoea set in. She took half a bottle of blackberry cordial but got no relief. She then sent me to see if I had anything that would help her. I sent her a bottle of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy and the first dose relieved her. Another of our neighbors had been sick for about a week and had tried different remedies for diarrhoea but kept getting worse. I sent him the same remedy. Only four doses of it were required to cure him. He says he owes his recovery to this wonderful medicine.—Mrs. Mary Sibley, Sidney, Mich. For sale by L. Stabler & Co., Druggists.
